

Why we loved our home...

Our house was 2 blocks from Morello Park Elementary School and my husband was able to walk our son to and from school from Kindergarten to Fifth grade although those later years he did walk home by himself every so often.

We brought both our kids when they were little to our neighborhood park to play. Both boys loved the Hot Wheels track, and we brought our cars with us a lot. The official name of the park was "Holiday Highlands" but we always called it Fig Tree Park.

Our home was within walking distance to Village Oaks Plaza via the pathway behind the tennis/ pickle ball courts. You would find Lucky's Grocery Store, Rite Aid, McDonald's, Baskin-Robbin's and lots of places to eat.

I particularly enjoyed my weekly walks to Wal-Mart with stops at Starbucks, Dollar Tree, and Chipotle restaurant.

We were close to CA Highway 4 and Interstate 680.

We took our boys when they were little to the neighborhood pool especially during the summer months.

We were very happy to know that Village Oaks neighborhood had many young families since we too were a young family moving in.

Altogether we ended up with really great neighbors and they were a big reason why we stayed so long in our neighborhood.
